Four Preachers In One Family

Three Bailey Brothers Follow Footsteps Of Father In Proclaiming The Gospel

Four preachers give distinction and dignity to the family of Rev. and Mrs. Charles F. Bailey of Damascus, formerly of Salem.

Living up to King Solomon's proverb, "A wise son maketh a glad father," the Baileys three sons, Walter R., Paul C., and George E., have united with their father in proclaiming the Gospel.

While the Bailey family is traditionally Quaker or Friends, the quartet now enjoys an interdenominational fellowship. Rev. Bailey and Walter are pastors of Friends churches and Paul and George are Methodists.

Rev. C. F. Bailey received his call to the ministry while engaged in farming near Damascus. A graduate of the Damascus Friends Academy (replaced by Goshen University High School), he also graduated from Cleveland Bible Institute and has been in pastoral work in Ohio, Michigan and Virginia since 1918. For a few years he traveled as an evangelist.

Pastor of the Salem First Friends Church for 11 years, he is now serving the Millville Friendly Community Church. He has been in this pastorate for two years.

Walter, pastor of the Williamsport, Pa., Friends Church for two years, formerly ministered to the Adrian, Mich., Friends Church. He is also superintendent of the Penn Quarterly Meeting, Pennsylvania. A graduate of Salem High School, Cleveland Bible College and Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., his first pastorate was the Millville Church.

Paul graduated from Salem High School, Asbury College and Asbury Seminary. For the past four years he has been pastor of the East Liverpool Boyce Methodist Church.

George, graduate of Goshen University High and Asbury College, is now a senior at Zenia Seminary, Pittsburgh. He is also serving his first pastorate, made up of three Methodist churches, Fosterville, Sugar Grove and Somerset, all in the Steubenville district.

Rev. Bailey officiated at the marriage of all of his sons.

Rev. and Mrs. Bailey have one daughter, Lois Bailey Richardson of Portsmouth, Va. A graduate of Asbury College, she is active in the Portsmouth Friends Church.

Mullins, Union Sign Contract

Employees Granted 12½ Cent Wage Hike

Mullins Mfg. Corp. announced today the signing of a new wage contract with the CIO United Steelworkers providing substantially the same benefits as the recently-signed basic steel contract.

In the matter of fringe benefits, where Mullins' previous contracts were below those of basic steel they have been brought up to the basic steel level.

This is the first master contract covering all of the Mullins plants. Previously, separate contracts have been negotiated for the Salem and Warren operations.

The contract provides for a 12½ cent an hour wage increase for the 3,500 employees, retroactive to March 1, and allows for six paid holidays and increased shift differentials.

It is a two-year contract, rather than for one year, and expires June 30, 1954.

The contract contains a clause for the re-opening of the pact in June of '53 if necessary.

Man, Facing Jury Charge, Kills Self

Howard J. Eyster, 49, was found dead of a shotgun wound at 9 a.m. today at his room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Streit at New Waterford.

Mr. Streit heard the gun go off and upon investigation found the man dead. Eyster had placed the barrel of the gun in his mouth and had used a yardstick to discharge it.

He was to have appeared in Lisbon court today on a non-support indictment brought by his wife from whom he is estranged. Columbiana County Coroner Ernest Sturgis ruled suicide by a self-inflicted gun wound.

He was employed by the Arbaugh Furniture Co. in Salem.

He leaves several children who reside with their mother in East Palestine; a brother, Ralph Eyster of Beaver; and a sister, Mrs. Mildred Pfeiffer of Pittsburgh.

The body is at the Warrick funeral home in Columbiana. Arrangements are incomplete.

Revised Bible, Out Tomorrow, Hailed As Religious Milestone

NEW YORK (AP)—It's the same basic story, but some of it is told a little differently in two new versions of the Bible.

Their appearance is hailed by churchmen as a major religious milestone.

To be published tomorrow is a new revision of the entire scriptures, completed after a 15-year interdenominational protestant undertaking. Advance copies were made available today.

And published today was a new translation, by Roman Catholic scholars, of the first eight books of the Old Testament—the initial phase of a historic project to retranslate all ancient Biblical manuscripts.

As an example of how the books vary, here are the new and old versions of the 20th verse of the first chapter of Genesis:

Protestant—(old King James Version)—"And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven."

Protestant—(new Revised Standard Version)—"And God said, 'Let the waters bring forth swarms of living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth across the firmament of the heavens.'"

Catholic—(old Douay Version)—"God also said: Let the waters bring forth the creeping creature having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth under the firmament of heaven."

Catholic—(new Confraternity Version)—"Then God said, 'Let the waters abound with life, and above the earth let winged creatures fly below the firmament of the heavens.'"

The Catholic translation, first ever done by the American Catholic clergy, is an attempt at a clearer, more accurate version than the Douay Bible, which is based on a 15-centuries-old Latin Vulgate translation by St. Jerome.

The Protestants' new "Revised Standard Version" was authorized by 40 denominations. Publication is sponsored by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

Original manuscripts, some of them discovered in modern times, were used in clarifying involved passages and outdated usages and correcting old copying errors.

City To Observe New Revision Of Bible
Salem and Vicinity Ministerial Association members are sponsoring the city-wide Bible observance service Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Methodist Church. This is a service of thanksgiving and dedication of the new Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible.

The version, which includes the new translation of both Old and New Testaments, will be displayed along with the copies of the New Testament, which has been revised for some time. Copies also may be secured at the meeting. Rev. E. S. Scott, Christian Church pastor, will speak.

Truman Calls Ike "Front For Crew Of Lobbyists"

Adlai Shows 10-Year Income Of $500,000

$200,000 Paid In Taxes; Move Challenges Ike

Stock Dividends Furnished Biggest Source Of Income

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson disclosed last night that his income over the last 10 years was a half million dollars. And he paid Uncle Sam more than $200,000 of it in taxes.

In making public his federal income tax returns, the Democratic presidential nominee in effect challenged his GOP rival, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, to come through with his own.

It was a spectacular follow-through to the baring 24 hours earlier of the financial operations through which Stevenson made gifts to supplement the pay of eight top Illinois state officials.

Income From Stocks
Over the 10 years—1942 through 1951—Stevenson's fees and salaries from a variety of jobs amounted to less than one fifth of his total income. Most of the income came from dividends on stock in corporations, but there was some, too, from farms, rentals, oil leases, and the stock markets.

Income from all sources was $500,052.84 (with only $81,532.57 in salary), the returns showed. Taxes took $211,980.42, leaving Stevenson $288,072.42.

For three years of his gubernatorial term that are covered by the returns—1949 through 1951—Stevenson's state salary was $35,000.

David Niles, Advisor To Presidents, Dies

BOSTON (AP)—David K. Niles, 62, son of a Russian immigrant tailor who became an advisor on minority problems to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, died Sunday at Beth Israel Hospital.

On hearing of Niles' death, President Truman said: "In the death of David K. Niles I have lost a close friend and a trusted associate."

"He served two presidents of the United States in positions of the highest trust and confidence. Presidents have been served by many able men, but seldom by one so truly selfless. His passion for anonymity was matched only by his sense of public responsibility."

British Speed Ace John Cobb Killed When Boat Disintegrates

LOCH NESS, Scotland (AP)—The jet-propelled speedboat Crusader blew to pieces in a cloud of smoke and spray on Loch Ness today, carrying British speed ace John Rhodes Cobb to death at a three-mile-a-minute clip.

Cobb, out to break the world hydroplane speed record, was traveling at about 200 miles an hour, witnesses said, when the speedboat disappeared in a flurry of spray and was scattered in pieces about 100 yards from the shore.

Cobb's wife saw her 52-year-old speed demon husband race to his death. She hid her face in her hands and turned away as the boat exploded. Cobb was picked out of the water still alive, but died a few moments later.

When the smoke and spray cleared, only four pieces of the wreckage could be seen from the shore, and these quickly disappeared beneath the waters of Loch Ness, fabled home of the horn-headed Loch Ness "monsters."

The Crusader was roaring down the course toward the end of its first measured mile. The 31-foot speedboat, latest of Cobb's many racing vehicles, was skipping up and down over the surface.

"Suddenly," said G. E. Nicholson, a hotel manager who witnessed the accident, "it disappeared in a flurry of spray and disintegrated."

"Mrs. Cobb was standing about 30 yards from me, watching," Nicholson continued. "She put up her hands to hide her face, and turned away."

Other witnesses said that just before the tragedy, Cobb's boat had appeared to slow down with a series of bumps.

Cobb, the six-foot-two speed specialist who piloted an automobile over the Utah Flats at better than 400 miles an hour in 1947—the fastest man ever traveled on land—had his speedboat specially built for the attempt at the world water speed record. The jet engine was similar to the ones which propel Britain's jet-engined Comet airliners.

Cobb—the other, placid side of his dual life, was that of a fur broker in London's musty inner city—held numerous speed records along with the Utah Flats one set in a specially built aluminum automobile, the 7,000-pound Ralston Special, in 1947. Formerly he held the world water speed record.

Water Dept. Probe Report Not Complete
The report which he had ordered compiled of Salem's entire water situation has not yet been completed but will be divulged to the public in its entirety when it is finished, Mayor Harry M. Vincent said today.

B. V. BeVier, resigned Saturday as Salem water superintendent, a position he has held since the inception of the East Cold Run Reservoir.

Mr. BeVier could not be reached for comment Saturday, nor was he available at his office this morning. The Water Commission, in announcing the resignation, did not elaborate other than to state that it would become effective "as soon as a successor can be qualified for the position."

Water may be pumped into the lake at the reservoir sometime in the next few days, according to reports issued from the water department last week. The reservoir, although finished to the extent that it can begin to pump water in the near future, still requires the installation of pipe lines from a point south of Guilford Lake to the site to transmit excess water from the lake.

Began at an estimated cost of $1,350,000 two years ago, the reservoir has already cost an additional $200,000.

President Opens Scathing Attack On GOP Nominee
Trainside Audience Told Republicans Might Bring War

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)—President Truman today bitterly denounced Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's charges of corruption in government by calling him a "front man for an unholy crew" of lobbyists using that issue as "a political football."

Truman tore loose with one of his most scathing attacks on the Republican presidential nominee in a "whistle stop" speech at Fargo, N. D., where he told a trainside crowd they'd better hesitate about returning the Republicans to power if they "want to avoid a third world war."

Eisenhower, he said, "seems to be listening to some strange advice so far as foreign policy is concerned."

Tackles Corruption Issue
The President tackled the issue of corruption in his administration on his first formal whistle stop speech of his 8,500-mile, 15-day coast to coast tour. He said he had been "getting rid of wrongdoers" over the "opposition of Republicans in Congress."

Truman made an earlier rear platform appearance at Breckenridge, Minn., where he spoke off-the-cuff.

It was a gloves-off attack Truman turned on his former chief-of-staff at Fargo.

He said of the Eisenhower who once quoted Truman as saying Truman would support him for anything he might want, including the presidency, that the general has swallowed the propaganda of the special interests, "hook, line and sinker."

"Front Man For Lobbies"
"He may not know it," Truman said of Eisenhower, "but he has become a front man for the lobbies."

"They are sending him around the country with advance agents to put up bill boards and balloons and pass out the confetti. They have plenty of money to put into these things. The Wall Street bankers are just pouring it out."

Truman said Eisenhower admits he's trying to win the election by "appealing to the people's emotions, not to their intellects."

"That's why you won't find anything in most of his speeches excepting a lot of lies."

8 Plead Not Guilty To Indictments
Eight persons indicted by the September Grand Jury last week entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned this morning before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp. One pleaded guilty and requested probation, while four others remained to be arraigned.

Howard J. Eyster, 49, of New Waterford, who was to have appeared in court today on a non-support charge brought by his wife, died of a self-inflicted gun wound at 9 a.m. today at the New Waterford home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Streit.

Entering innocent pleas were Tommie L. Wingate of Canfield, charged with selling securities without a license and the sale of unregistered securities; Teddy Fluharty of East Liverpool, shooting with intent to wound; William E. Powell, robbery of a Salem service station; Wayne Green of Spring Grove, Pa., and Edward Walls, 21, of Carnegie, Pa., indicted jointly for auto

Traffic Mishaps Leave 3 Injured

6 Accidents Probed By Highway Patrol

Three persons were injured in three of the six traffic mishaps investigated by State Highway Patrolmen over the weekend.

A soldier hitch-hiker in a car driven by an unidentified driver was hurt when the car, chased by Minerva police, went out of control at 3:20 a.m. Sunday and overturned in an old canal on Route 30, about one mile east of Minerva.

Patrolmen reported that the driver of the vehicle and another man sitting in the front seat with him left the wrecked car and fled after the mishap. Patrolmen are checking the car to determine whether or not it had been stolen.

The soldier, Pvt. John Adams, 22, of Pontiac, Mich., sustained scalp lacerations, a possible skull injury and a possible hip fracture and was taken to Murphy Hospital, Canton.

Another soldier hitch-hiker, Pvt. Donald Bitner, 22, of Jackson, Mich., escaped uninjured.

A car driven on Route 170, about a mile north of the intersection of Routes 170 and 14, by Norman Guthrie, 20, of Lafayette went out of control and overturned at 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

Pvt. Albert Kaufman, 20, of Pandora, O., a passenger in the car, sustained a sprained back and a fractured pelvis in the mishap and was brought to the Salem City Hospital where his condition is reported "fairly good" today.

In a similar mishap, Pfc. Robert Rakocy, 23, of Youngstown sustained a laceration of the right ear and several fractured ribs at 11:55 p.m. Saturday when he lost control of his car on Route 7, near North Lima, causing it to leave the road and overturn.

Rakocy was brought to the Salem City Hospital where his condition is reported "fairly good" today.

Cars driven by Harry Dinsmore, 58, of East Liverpool and Norman Matern, 20, of East Liverpool collided at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of the Calcutta-Cannon Mills Rd. and Route 30.

Three drivers were cited by patrolmen following a chain-reaction mishap which occurred at 6:25 p.m. Sunday on Route 14, just south of North Benton.

The mishap involved cars driven by Regis Rogers, 21, of Union Tower, Pa., John Simpson, 26, of Akron, William Haubrick, 29, of Lakewood and James Smith, 28, of Camsburg, Pa.

Simpson, Haubrick and Smith were each fined $5 and costs by Mayor William Unger of Sebring for following too closely.

A pickup truck driven on Route 558, south of Salem, by Theodore Vaughn, 37, of RD 1, Leetonia was heavily damaged at 8:40 p.m. Saturday when it struck a cow, owned by Fred Hippley of RD 3, Salem, which had wandered onto the highway.

The cow was injured but rose to its feet and walked away, Vaughn reported.

WHAT IT MEANS:

The Constitutional Convention

The Ohio constitution says that there shall be a statewide referendum every 20 years, beginning with 1912, on the question of assembling a constitutional convention.

In 1932, the question was rejected in the referendum.

In 1952, voters must make another decision.

This summary of the question is presented as a public service, to help readers understand the issue of a constitutional convention.

A CONSTITUTIONAL convention may be called in either of two ways.

If the General Assembly, by a two-thirds vote in each branch, thinks it necessary to call a convention, it may submit the question to the voters at any time. If a majority approves, the Assembly then proceeds at its next session to pass a law calling a convention.

The second method is provided in Sect. 3 Article XVI. It was adopted in 1912 and provides that at the general election in 1932 and each twentieth year thereafter the question of whether or not there shall be a convention "to revise, alter or amend the constitution" shall be submitted automatically by the secretary of state to the voters of Ohio.

If the vote is favorable, the General Assembly at its next session must provide by law for the election of delegates and the assembling of the convention. Contrary to a common belief, there is more than one way to assemble a constitutional convention.

Ohio has had four constitutional conventions. The first was held in 1802. It completed a constitution in 225 days. This document had its conception in those provisions of the Ordinance of 1787 which prescribed the various stages by which the Northwest Territory could progress toward self government. It remained in effect nearly 50 years.

In 1849 the people of Ohio authorized a convention, which completed its work in 1851. Proposals for revising the original constitution were approved. In 1873, another convention assembled. Its work was submitted in 1874. The people turned down the proposals.

From 1875 to 1912, there were 25 constitutional amendments proposed by act of the General Assembly or by petition. Nine were adopted, 16 defeated.

It has now been 40 years since Ohio has had a full-dress constitutional convention. But during that time 59 amendments have been proposed, 30 by initiative petition, 28 by the General Assembly. Twenty-four were approved, 35 defeated. There has been nothing static about the Ohio constitution.

In 1932, the people defeated the question of creating a convention under the automatic provision adopted in 1912. This is only the second occasion for a decision under the automatic provision.

OHIO HAS HAD two constitutions, the original one framed in 1802 and the one written in 1851. The constitutional convention of 1912 did not write a new constitution but merely submitted 41 amendments, 33 of which were adopted.

Among the proposed amendments rejected by popular vote at that time were these:

A proposal to abolish capital punishment; a proposal to authorize voting machines; a proposal to increase the state debt to $50,000,000 for inter-county roads; and a proposal to regulate outdoor advertising.

The Ohio Program Commission, an official body created to stimulate public thinking in preparation for submission of the convention question in 1952, makes this statement:

"The constitution is no more and no less than our basic organic law. As such it should be stable and not subject to frivolous change. It should be amended only when the reasons for change are clear and sound. However, it should also be realized that the constitution is neither sacred nor immutable. It was created by man to serve the purposes of man. It has already undergone many revisions, large and small, and as long as time brings change the necessity for amendment of this document will recur. While the principle of constitutional protection of basic rights and fundamental law may be inviolable, the content of the constitution must be amenable to change if it is to serve the purpose for which it was designed."

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce in a statement to its membership declares:

"A constitutional convention would be productive of more unsetting proposals relating to state and local government in Ohio as they affect business—through taxes, finance and labor laws—than any other single event in the last half century."

Unemployed Korean Vets May Apply Oct. 15 For Benefits

Unemployed veterans who may apply for benefits after October 15 when the newly-enacted Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act goes into effect, were given advice today by Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the Salem office of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Manager Johnston pointed out that the veterans job insurance program will be under the sole jurisdiction of the Ohio BUC, which means that veterans, as well as non-veterans, must be "ready, able and willing to work" and willing to accept any offer of suitable work.

In this connection, he said, veterans who apply for benefits will be asked whether they had been employed before entering the service, and whether they had checked with their former employers about their re-employment rights.

It was pointed out that a veteran who was employed (on a job other than temporary) prior to going into the armed service and who has a discharge other than dishonorable, is considered as having been on furlough or leave of absence from his old job during his period of military service. Such veterans are entitled under law to re-employment in their former positions or positions of like seniority, status and pay.

Similar protection is granted the disabled veteran, who, if qualified to perform the duties of any position, is to be hired by the employer to fill any job which he is qualified to perform with similar rights.

Failure of the veteran to ask his old employer for a job or refusal by the veteran to accept suitable work from his old employer may prevent him from receiving unemployment benefits, Johnston said.

Unemployed veterans who qualify will be entitled to receive $26 weekly in unemployment benefits for up to 26 weeks.

Under the new federal legislation, unemployment benefits may be paid to unemployed veterans who had some service in the armed forces on or after June 27, 1950. A veteran could have served his last day on June 27, 1950, and still meet this part of the eligibility requirements, Johnston said.

The law also requires the veteran to have served at least 90 consecutive days in the armed forces, unless the veteran was discharged or released because of a service-incurred disability or injury.

The veterans mustering-out pay period must have expired at the time of filing an application for benefits, Johnston said.

When the veteran applies for benefits, he must present satisfactory evidence of service in the armed forces. According to Johnston, any of the following will be accepted, either in the original or as a photostatic copy:

1. Discharge from armed forces.
2. Report of Separation from the Armed Forces (DD214).
3. Certificate of Service (DD217).
4. If a reserve, papers releasing veteran to the reserves.
5. Letters or papers from Department of Defense showing eligibility for mustering-out pay.
6. Letters or papers from Veterans Administration showing eligibility for loan, education or training, or subsistence allowance.

Another prerequisite needed when applying is the veteran's Social Security Card. He pointed out that many young veterans who went directly from the class room into the armed forces probably will not have Social Security Cards which, of course, is a necessity for anyone seeking a job.

Another tip handed out by Johnston concerns the veteran who had some work experience before entering the armed forces. Upon applying for benefits, all veterans will be asked if they have worked at all in the past 15 months. Those who have will be asked to identify by name and address all employers for whom they have worked in this period.

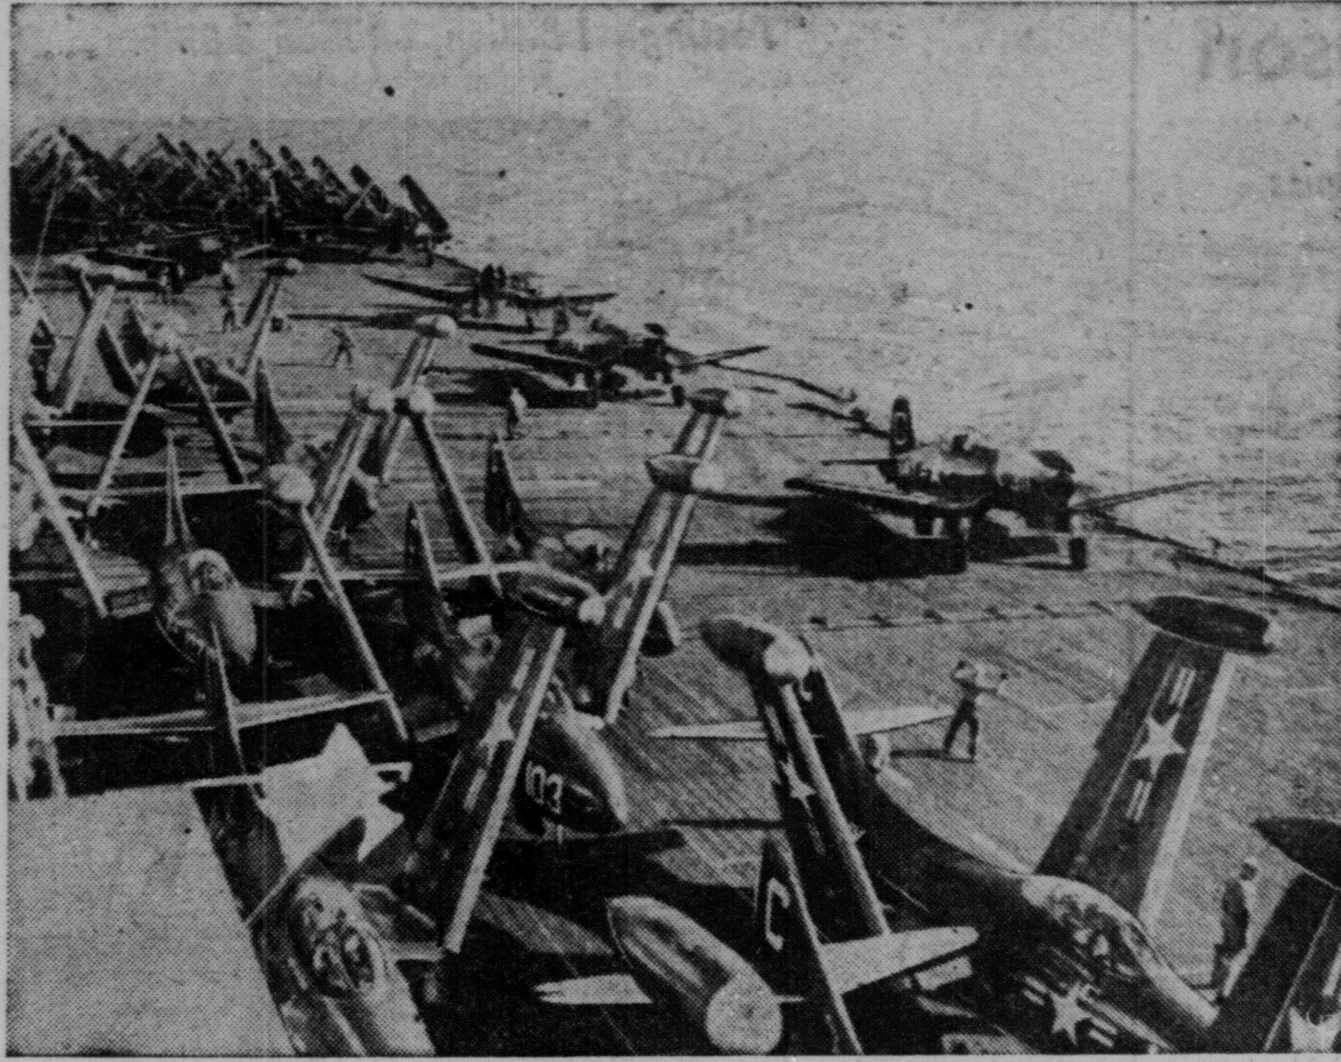

Unemployment benefits cannot be paid to any veteran who has applied for or is receiving allowances for educational training, subsistence for rehabilitation or mustering-out pay.

Johnston said that his office will be glad to render every possible assistance to unemployed veterans, but asked that no one apply for benefits before October 15.

Song Writers' Plight

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —You don't have to be unknown to be an unsuccessful song writer—although of course it is a great big help.

But the 1 million or more obscure yearning Americans to whose ditties Tin Pan Alley has turned a deaf ear can take some consolation: Their plight is shared by one of the most glamorous stars of the entertainment industry.

She is Irene Manning, Ohio's blonde warbler. After singing thousands of other people's songs, some of which she made famous, Irene decided to scribble a few herself.

"I have written the music and lyrics for a dozen songs, and have a lot more I'm working on," she said.

The number she has had published add up to a fat round zero. But like any other amateur she eats the bread of hope.

"The song publishing is quite different today," she remarked. "The disk jockeys are the kings now. You have to get a record made and played before a publisher will even say hello to you."

But she is determined to popularize her songs even if she has to become a lady disk jockey herself. Her output ranges from children's chants to love ballads like "I Want to Break Even With You," and a spiritual called "The Long Road Home."

"Some of them are corny," frankly admitted Irene, but pointed out that corn is a valuable product in any form.

Song composing is just another string in the bow of this talented gal who is at home in dramatic for comedy roles as well as in radio, stage or screen musicals.

She returned recently from four years in London, where she had her own television show, and one of her goals now is a network show here.

Irene feels America has overcome the early British lead in video technique, but says there is still one advantage in performing on TV over there:

"Since they don't have commercials, they aren't so tense about making a program end exactly on time. If it runs over a bit, nobody minds—and that gives everyone a the same warmth you sell a song," she said. "High-pressure salesmanship is getting to be a thing of the past."

I don't know what TV screen she watches, but it certainly isn't mine. I keep four brands of cigarettes in my home, for fear of what the neighbors might think if I had the wrong kind. And I brush my teeth with three different kinds of toothpaste—two white and one green—because who wants his molars to feel insecure?

But Irene is embarked on a wonderful, hopeful crusade. On, girl, on!

Hong Kong is not a city in China. It is an island of 32 square miles, located at the mouth of the Canton River. It was ceded to Great Britain in 1841 as a result of the First Opium War, and is an important British naval base.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

The Bible in Today's Words

The world's best selling book comes out next week in the most significant revision in more than 330 years.

The revised standard version of the Bible, first authorized revision since 1901, will be issued in a first printing of 1,350,000 copies by a union of Protestant groups.

At about the same time Catholics, observing the 500th anniversary of the printing of the Gutenberg Bible, will offer a revised translation of the first eight books of the New Testament.

The new Protestant Bible, will offer a revised translation of the first eight books of the New Testament.

The new Protestant Bible, prepared by a group of scholars headed by Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of Yale Divinity School, puts the Scriptures into today's languages. Meaning of words has changed greatly since the King James version was prepared in 1611.

For example, the old version says in one of the Psalms:

"I prevented the dawning of the morning and cried: I hoped in Thy word."

The new one says:

"I rise before the dawn and cry for help: In thy words do I hope."

The modern translators have changed nothing in the Bible which millions know and love. They merely have interpreted the old writers in words more understandable to the people of today.

Publication of 1,350,000 copies is the greatest printing order in all the world's history. Even before the revision the Bible was, year after year, the best seller among books.

The world will be a better place if the new Bible encourages more people to read it and to follow the sublime truths it teaches and the unmatched ethical standards it contains.

A Little Short Of Victory

Our Cleveland Indians fell a little short of the pennant not because they were not a good team but because another good team got the jump on them and refused to be headed in the final stretch.

To one who follows the game as a purely amateur fan and who knows as much about the intricacies of scientific baseball as about hieroglyphology, it looks like a long series of "ifs" kept the Indians from a pennant.

If Keller had matched the record of the other members of what started out as the "Big Four"; if several batted balls which started out as easy double plays hadn't turned into costly errors; if rain on a couple of occasions had held off until the end of the inning in which the Indians had forged into the lead; if Manager Lopez had pulled his pitcher earlier on some occasions and left him in longer on others; if the batter had connected on a few more of the many occasions when they failed with winning runs on base; if any of these had happened it might have been a different story.

To this baseball babe in the woods story, Indians looked like a team made up partly of stars and partly of young men lacking a little of the perfection which goes with championship. They looked like a team which gave its best and sometimes fell flat on its face because of too great eagerness.

There is one type of fan to be found following any sport to which anything short of complete victory is dismal failure. There are others of us to whom second place in a race so close is an achievement to be cheered.

To those of us who feel that way, the Indians are a great team. We like their spirit, their sportsmanship and even their eagerness which proved costly at times. They're still our boys and we're proud of them.

New Experience For Dixie

The South has taken on a new importance in this presidential campaign and likes it. Candidates in the past have done little speaking south of the Mason-Dixon line. This was because the Democrats didn't need to campaign in the traditionally solid South and the Republicans stayed out because they considered it wasted effort.

Both candidates already have delivered major speeches in the South and will return. It is conceded that Eisenhower will have a hard time winning electoral votes of the southern states although this is considered a possibility in the case of some of the states in which defection is serious.

There are, however, byproducts of his unusual attention to Dixie. One of the most important is that he wants to force Stevenson into as much southern campaigning as possible. This will put the Democratic candidate in the difficult position of trying to take a stand on FEPC and its associated problems which will satisfy the South without alienating groups of voters needed for Stevenson success in northern centers.

Stevenson's presence is also counted on to emphasize the difference between him and such Southern Democratic leaders as Gov. Byrnes, Gov. Shivers and Sen. Byrd, all of whom are held in high regard by their constituents.

Dulles and Acheson

By PETER EDSON

Policies Are Closer Than Either Admits

WASHINGTON—John Foster Dulles' radio press conference over the Mutual network the other night did more to clear up his proposed new Republican foreign policy than any speech either General Eisenhower or Mr. Dulles has made. Mr. Dulles made it even clearer than any article or book he has written on the subject previously.

There was one answer to a question which blew away much of the smog of confusion that has surrounded the political campaign foreign policy debate thus far. It came when Mr. Dulles was commenting on Secretary of State Dean Acheson's speech in which he said the use of force to liberate Communist satellite countries would be an "invitation to disaster."

Mr. Dulles replied: "I think that if it involves the use of force in a war of liberation, it means disaster. Of course I'll agree with that."

Now this is important. Because it shows for the first time that Mr. Dulles and Secretary of State Dean Acheson really aren't as far apart as they have let on in arguing the respective merits of the Acheson policy of "Containment" versus the Dulles policy of "Liberation."

THESE ARE probably the two most misunderstood catch words of the campaign. In the great American effort to over-simplify and boil down complete doctrines of foreign policy into a single word, both Republicans and Democrats have been pretty badly confused.

General Eisenhower's and Governor Stevenson's foreign policy speeches have been misunderstood as a result. And President Truman's comments blasting General Eisenhower's speech didn't help materially to clear the air.

Secretary Acheson, in his speech before the Machinists' Union convention at Kansas City, said frankly that he did not consider the word "Containment" a good "short-hand description of what we have been doing and propose that we continue."

On the other hand, Mr. Dulles says that his theory of "Liberation" has been misunderstood and grossly misinterpreted. That is a familiar old for politicians.

No one can question Mr. Dulles' sincerity in this statement, but it is permissible to draw the conclusion that if he has been misunderstood, it is only because he didn't make himself clear in the first place.

He quit this job so he could be free to help draft the Republican platform planks on foreign policy.

And as some of his less ardent admirers add, "to run for Secretary of State."

Anyway, the John Foster Dulles who then started making speeches around the country and writing articles for the magazines was not the same Ambassador Dulles who in countless State Department clambakes was known for his shrewdness, his extreme caution and his willingness to back up whenever diplomatic discretion became the better part of military valor.

In simpler language, he has never been one to stick his neck out if there was any danger of getting his head cut off.

WHEN THE FULL history of the Korean War is written, it will probably be recorded that Mr. Dulles—who was in Japan when the war started—did as much as any one to get the United States into it.

He spoiled General MacArthur's Sunday afternoon nap to make him realize that this was war. And Mr. Dulles made sure that President Truman was tossed the right torch, so that he would pick it up and toss it on to the United Nations, which he did.

Because these facts are well known in diplomatic circles, there was naturally some concern when Mr. Dulles, as chief architect of the new Republican foreign policy, started talking and writing about the need for a more aggressive foreign policy towards Russia.

"Containment" was not enough. The satellites would have to be liberated. Hence the tag-line for the new Dulles policy of "Liberation."

The prospect of starting more Korean wars all over the place naturally came to many minds—including those of Truman, Acheson and Governor Stevenson.

Yet there was in Mr. Dulles' record plenty of evidence that if the full responsibility were his, he wouldn't do any such thing. And now, at last, he confirms this himself.

He has no thought of trying to "drop arms" into Poland or Czechoslovakia or any other area he would like to see liberated, to stir up revolution. He does not think these countries can be freed by the Republicans in a hurry. It will take something less than the 25 years it took the Communists to win control of China.

What this all seems to shake down to is that the difference between "containment" and "Liberation" is about like the difference between Tweedledum and Tweedledee.

Health To You

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.

Use Surgery For Diseased Tonsils

Everyone is born with tonsils and adenoids, but these tissues do not always have to be removed. Both tonsils and adenoids often can be left where they are all through life without producing any apparent harm.

Dr. Jordan

A reader asks: "What good are tonsils? What is their function? Does it hurt a child to go through life without them? Are you healthier with your tonsils?"

The tonsils are small lumps or nodes, lying in the back of the throat, made up of certain kinds of cells which classify them as lymphoid tissue. They are of doubtful value and have very little function, though they may trap and perhaps destroy germs entering the breathing system.

But so far as one can tell, it does not "hurt a child to go through life without them." Furthermore, to answer the final question, there is little reason to believe that one is healthier with the tonsils than without them—in fact sometimes one is healthier without them.

Sometimes the removal of the tonsils and adenoids has to be seriously considered. The tonsils can become chronically inflamed, and frequently in such cases look normal on the surface but have deep-seated infection within them.

In fact, chronic infection may cause the tonsils to appear shrunken and still pour poison into the system. In such cases, especially if rheumatism, injury to the kidneys, or other damage is suspected, the tonsils should generally be removed.

Th adenoids are made up of tissue much like that of the tonsils. This tissue lies in the back part of the nose. The adenoids, like the tonsils, may harbor germs and cause chronic infection.

In children, particularly, they may be large enough to interfere with breathing through the nose—most mouth breathers have enlarged adenoids. The adenoids can be, and usually are, removed at the same time as the tonsils.

Definitely diseased tonsils and adenoids should be removed surgically. They are sometimes treated with X-ray, by coagulation with an electric needle, or by radium (in the case of the adenoids), but these methods are not used as often as surgical removal.

Uncle Ef Says

Arch Nearbrite was a little confused, but has been straightened out on the Washington mess Eisenhower has started talking about. He was assured that the reference to mess in this case is not the same as the army term for mealtime, even though Ike is a retired general.

That which is won ill, will never wear well, for there is a curse attends it, which will waste it; and the same corrupt dispositions which incline men to the sinful ways of getting, will incline them to the like sinful ways of spending. —Matthew Henry.

But They Knew God

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

In the faith of my fathers, atonement is an essential expression of the relationship of man to God. It is accepted that man is fallible. His judgment is often wrong. His acts often bring harm to others; his failures may result in calamities even to those who are strangers.

In the philosophy of my ancestors, a man could not shirk his responsibility. When he sinned, when he transgressed, when he did evil, he could not lean on the crutch of human weakness. He could not claim that he had done his best. He had to atone for his errors.

The fast of Yom Kippur, to which Jews throughout the world consecrate themselves today, is called in English, the day of atonement. It is a day on which men, women and children of the Jewish faith confess their sins and atone for them. All confess together and atone in the presence of each other.

AND THIS WE KNOW:

That hard times follow good times; that the seven lean cows, as Joseph knew, would consume the seven fat cows; that after great prosperity always come troubled times and fearful people. This has been human experience and perhaps what often makes the Jew so touchy is that from Abraham until this very day, he has witnessed the curious phenomenon that wise and competent men, as well as knaves and fools, foul their own world once they have grown rich and powerful and sure. Only those who live in the fear of retribution live prudently.

Thus, we, in this country, have ourselves witnessed the change-over from good times to bad, from profligacy to the need for frugality, from sureness to fear. We were the richest people on earth before 1929 and little taxed; we are now the most taxed people on earth and constantly going deeper in debt. We were proud and independent, each man sure in his own home, providing for his family by his own ingenuity and hard work, begging of no one, surely not of his government. Since 1932, we have become increasingly dependent upon government.

For more than a century, we lived in peace with all the world (except for the slight Spanish-American war) Since 1917, we have engaged in what seems to be a constant, unending, costly war in which our sons are being devoured and our wealth consumed.

It is unbelievable that these changes are without cause. Everything in life has meaning. Everything in each man's life is related to all that has gone before. Therefore, when the greatest and richest and most powerful of all nations faces disaster and piles confusion upon confusion, the cause must be sought, the explanation must be found.

WE HAVE SINNED. We have sinned as individuals; we have sinned as a people. We have erected false idols; we have followed false prophets. We have deserted God and God's natural law; we have accepted the sly speeches of glib men rather than the majesty of tradition. We have deserted liberty and human dignity for wanton security, for promises of plenty. We have preferred wisecracks and gags to wisdom and experience. We have listened to the siren of internationalism and have forsaken patriotism. We have forgotten Moses, Christ, Aristotle and toyed with Marx, Lenin and Stalin.

We have pursued fun as an end and abandoned our children to self-indulgence. We have tolerated corruption and watched our families disintegrate by divorce.

For these sins we are being punished inexorably. The ultra-modern will laugh at this; they ridicule the supernatural and the eternal. But troubled times have come upon our generation. We are discontented. We are worried. We live in fear of insecurity, of war, of lost sons. Those are the facts of our times.

Officials' Salaries

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson, in explaining why he used a special fund to help pay Illinois officials, said:

"... The salary levels used by the states — although they vary, there is a great variation in them — are so far below salaries for comparable responsibilities in private enterprise that some of the men entering my administration and remaining in it did so at a considerable hardship to themselves and their families."

Sen. Richard Nixon, in explaining his $18,000 expense fund, said it was extremely difficult to live on a senator's salary.

President Truman repeatedly has said it's hard to attract, and keep, first class men working for the government.

Are public officials underpaid? Are taxpayers cheating themselves by not getting topflight men for the complex, difficult job of government?

There are no sure-fire answers to these questions, but it's interesting to look at some of the salaries now being paid.

"The Book of States" put out by the Council of State Governments has statistics up to July, 1951. Some of these figures may have been changed in the past year, but even so they will illustrate Stevenson's point of the wide variations in the pay of state executives.

Take the range in governors' salaries. New York, Pennsylvania and California pay $25,000 a year. Maryland pays $4,500. Most states also include extras, such as a governor's mansion.

The executive secretary to the governor: Some states don't have any. Those that do vary from $16,500 in New York to $4,200 in Montana, Utah and Nebraska.

Superintendent of public instruction: New York $20,000, Idaho $5,000.

The courts show the same wide variations. The U. S. Supreme Court justices get $25,000 a year, with Chief Justice Vinson getting an extra $500. Some New York state judges, who are located in New York City, get $31,500.

There isn't even any agreement on how much should be allowed for expenses.

Virginia allows five cents a mile for travel. New York allows eight cents. Several states allow 7 1/2 cents. North Dakota puts a $4-a-day limit on meals; South Dakota puts the limit at $2.50 a day, with hotel rooms at cost but not to exceed $5 a night.

(These figures, like those on salaries, are a year old and may have been raised since.)

In general, federal salaries look better.

Truman gets $100,000 and up to $90,000 in tax-free expense accounts. Vice President Barkley, who presides over the Senate, and Speaker Sam Rayburn, who presides over the House, get $30,000 and $10,000 expenses.

Cabinet officers get $22,500. In all, more than 50 government employees get $15,000 or more a year.

This doesn't include Congress. Representatives and senators each get $12,500, plus a $2,500 tax-free expense account. Next year the salary will be $15,000—but no tax-free expense account.

Many congressmen besides Nixon have complained that, with all the entertaining and politicking they feel they must do, they have trouble making ends meet. Some write magazine articles some lecture, some practice law.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Too Good To Last

In a world of cosmic change and flabbergasting events no surprises have topped the spectacle of Milton Berle trying to get into the act. All Uncle Milton's video life has been devoted to participation in every scene and now—stop us if you can't stand the shock—he has a new format in which he is the outsider, the goat and the guy fighting for recognition! There could be no more amazing switch if Mr. Truman turned Republican, Broadway switched to soft lighting, Tallulah Bankhead got billed to play "Little Eva" and Joe E. Lewis decided to do "Hamlet."

For two successive weeks Milton has kept his pants on! Only once has he appeared in female attire! This is revolution. Goodman Ace (and there's a modest name if we ever heard one) is Uncle Milton's new writer. Berle is playing his "Ace" in the new routine, but the question is whether his public will demand that he go back to playing "jokers wild." In his opening autumn show Berle left his fans on the ropes gasping, "What goes?" Unobtrusive, much of the time in the background and always in silk top, dinner clothes and without a custard, a pratfall or a wig in the act, he seemed like Anthony Eden with music. The switch was the talk of show biz.

IN HIS SECOND SHOW Uncle Milton still played the fellow trying to horn into the act and the man in need of sympathy and help. There was much of the old-time gusto and two other great stars of the amusement world, Gregory Ratoff and Carmen Miranda, were permitted to have fat parts. The finale, in which it was shown how Hollywood might build a simple little song into a superdooper spectacle with trapeze performers and even elephants was one of the funnest scenes in Uncle Milton's career.

There was never anything wrong with Berle that a little self-effacement couldn't cure, and the new routine may prove an extra smart move by an extra smart showman. But a Berle show with nobody getting smacked across the kisser with a bag of flour, no wigs, few female impersonations and no falling trousers still seems too good to last. The nephews and nieces are reported depressed, with some of them threatening a march on Goodman Ace carrying "Unfair to Monsters" and "You Can't Do This to Us" banners. The big question in show business is what changed the format. This mystery is the real Whodunit of Video. One story is that the sponsor acted on complaints from parents and teachers that the small fry, patterning their behavior on Uncle Milton's zany actions, were coming to school in frightwigs, throwing pieces instead of spitballs at teacher and booing the principal for not coming to work in his undies.

UNCLE MILTIE has gone in for restraint and class. It's pretty revolutionary. We await news that Lewis and Martin are going to do a revival of "Peter Pan." And we trust the gasoline hour quartette won't have to sing it. "We changed his style, we changed his clutch; we guess we've changed our Berle too much."

In our book Dick Nixon gave a wonderful performance and left an impression of complete honesty and high character. . . . The re-election, we think, will be that millions will vote for the Eisenhower ticket in the belief that the Nixon matter was a little like shooting Little Boy Blue to detract attention from Ali Baba, or bumping off David because he had accepted help in getting the slingshot for the fight with Goliath. . . . Malik has canceled his European sailing for the fourth time. . . . Can't get a ship that makes the trip backwards or upside down. . . . "Stevenson Blames Infiltration on Republicans' headline. . . . Aw, Aldi, yo don't have to reach that far for big laughs.

Six Saravon plays will be produced on TV by the Ford Foundation. . . . But will Ford put a good instrument board on the video dashboard so we can know what's going on? . . . It seems a little cuckoo to crack down on bingo, a game of dimes and quarters for church funds, in a town where millions are bet daily at race tracks, but we still think the church should be the last place to permit any gambling, however, it may be tolerated elsewhere. . . . John Golden has terrific force on video and should be on more programs. . . . Skeptic after hearing the Nixon speech, "Great, but what does he do for an encore?"

OPERATION 'ROLL UP'.—While our armed forces are currently under fire for extravagance and waste, at least one service unit is busy saving the United States millions of dollars that would otherwise be eaten up in war waste. Under Army Ordnance's "Operation Roll Up," a program started in late 1947, nearly 60,000 World War II vehicles were reclaimed from Pacific islands where they had been abandoned. They were brought to three installations in Japan, were stripped, and then rebuilt piece by piece. "Roll Up" received new impetus with the outbreak of the Korean war and aided the stand UN forces made in repelling early Communist drives. Army Ordnance stations in Japan now are overhauling worn-out vehicles sent from Korea.

Fulbright Says
Parties Waste
Time On Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright said today both Republicans and Democrats are devoting too much attention to probing each other's political and expense funds.

"I don't think that any of these people on either side are dishonest corrupt politicians," the Arkansas Democrat told reporters. He added:

"All of this obscures the real fundamental issues of the presidential campaign and leaves the impression with the public that everybody is corrupt."

Fulbright was commenting on the special expense fund for Sen. Richard M. Nixon, the Republican vice presidential nominee, and the Illinois campaign fund of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee, used to augment salaries of key state officials.

Fulbright said the charges and counter-charges "develop a name-calling and low-level campaign."

"That's bad enough in a campaign for a county constable," he said. "It certainly has no place in a national presidential campaign."

Fulbright said he agrees with Nixon that senators from larger states, such as California, do not have large enough salaries and expense funds from regular sources.

He added that members of Congress "are too sensitive" in voting on their own pay and allowances and this should be done by an outside commission of non-governmental leaders.

At the same time, Fulbright said Nixon's nationwide explanation of his special fund from Californians, via television, radio and the press, "left a false impression."

He said most people now believe that Nixon used this fund to avoid extra expenses to the taxpayers.

"One of the biggest items was for thousands of Christmas cards," Fulbright said. "That never could or should be paid for by the taxpayers."

With slight variations of length, the 20.62-inch ancient Egyptian cubit was used by many ancient civilizations including, it is believed, one of those which built some of the now ruined structures in New Mexico.

Chicago Fielder
Held For RapeRivera Arrested On
Charge Of Woman, 22

CHICAGO (AP)—Rookie outfielder Jim Rivera was arrested Sunday in the Chicago White Sox clubhouse on the complaint of a 22-year-old wife of a soldier that he raped her in her apartment Saturday night.

Booked for rape but not formally charged, Rivera was held for questioning by the police sex bureau today. Police said he denied Mrs. Janet Gater's accusation and told them the attractive brunet statistician submitted willingly after inviting him to her south side apartment.

Mrs. Gater told police: She was walking her dog and carrying books and newspapers Saturday when Rivera introduced himself and offered to help after seeing some of the books slip out of her arms.

He accompanied her to her apartment, pushed his way in ahead of her, and refused to leave when she asked him. He advised her, "take it easy."

She served him a bottle of pop and she had a cup of coffee with him before he forced her into a bedroom.

She called police who said the alleged attack was confirmed by examination at a hospital. She identified Rivera as her assailant while he played baseball Sunday in the final game of the season against the St. Louis Browns.

when you change to PHILIP MORRIS!

Here's why:

1 YOU'LL FEEL BETTER BECAUSE, in case after case, coughs due to smoking disappear... parched throat clears up... that stale "smoked-out" feeling vanishes.

2 YOU'LL FEEL BETTER BECAUSE, once again, you'll really taste your cigarette—the good, clean taste of fine, mild tobacco. Your food will taste better, too! And you'll know you've made a wise change... for your own good.

3 YOU'LL FEEL BETTER BECAUSE you'll be smoking the one cigarette with a difference in manufacture... an important difference that avoids the main cause of cigarette irritation.

4 YOU'LL FEEL BETTER BECAUSE, day after day, you'll be smoking the cigarette recommended by eminent nose and throat specialists to patients who smoke... the ONE cigarette proved definitely milder than any other leading brand.*

55 Persons Attend Book Repair Event

Fifty-five persons attended the demonstrations on book repairing Thursday at the Salem public library, with twelve institutions, including schools, libraries and business establishments represented.

Sedge Reed, representative of Demco Library Supplies, explained various methods of mending the damaged books which each person brought for repair.

Mr. Reed explained that money can be saved, especially in schools and libraries where books are subjected to rough handling, by prolonging use of the material with proper repairs made in time.

Repair measures save the cost of rebinding which is almost as great as the cost of a new book, he said.

The project was sponsored jointly by Salem High School, where Miss Lois Lehman is librarian, the public library, with John Rebenack librarian, and the Demco Library Supplies.

Mr. Rebenack and Miss Lehman are planning another class at a future date for those who could not attend Thursday.

Mrs. Pearl Hawkins, lecturer, has arranged the following program:

Officers' entrance march; assistants to open Bible; opening prayer by chaplain, Mrs. Estella Brown; flag salute; the national anthem, Mrs. Betty Mathers of Bayard grange;

Reading, Mrs. Pearl Hawkins; lecture of agriculture, Master Edwin Copeland, and an address by Clarence L. Wetzel on the "Constitutional Convention" will also be included in the program.

Activities in community welfare will be explained by William Maple Jr., and recognition will be made of charter, 50- and 25-year members, as well as state officers and visiting members and guests.

Recreation will be in charge of Frank Clark. A social hour and refreshments will conclude the program. The public is invited.

Lowell R. King of E. State St. left last week for Baltimore, Md., for his first year in Johns-Hopkins Medical School.

Miss Joyce Tilley Married To Clyde Emerson Wilkes

Miss Joyce Lee Tilley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tilley of 344 W. Pershing, and Clyde Emerson Wilkes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkes of RD 3, Leetonia, were united in marriage Friday at 5 p.m. at the Methodist Church in Columbiana.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white nylon tulle net over taffeta with satin interwoven in the material. The jacket was fashioned with a stand-up collar. Her fingertip veil of white net was matched with white net mitts. She wore a gold locket which belonged to her grandmother and carried a lace hankie. Her bouquet was of red roses, centered with a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Elsie Flickinger, maid of honor, wore a pink organdy gown over satin with a sweetheart neckline. Her necklace was given to her by the bride. A net band was worn in her hair and her mitts were of matching net. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Jackie Tilley, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She wore an off-the-shoulder rose pink taffeta gown with puff sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white pompons and wore a headpiece of pink roses and pompons. Leroy Shingleton was best man.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue sheer. The groom's mother wore a gray suit. Both wore red rose corsages.

Guests from Warren, Youngstown, Mayers, Salem, Columbiana and Washingtonville attended the reception at the home of the bride's parents, where garden flowers and crepe paper were used in decorating. The four-tiered wedding cake baked by Mrs. John Tilley and Mrs. Leonard Perkins was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The bride attended Salem High School. Her husband attended Fairfield High School and is employed at the National Rubber and Machine Company in Columbiana.

For a short honeymoon trip, the new Mrs. Wilkes wore a light brown check gabardine with dark brown accessories and the yellow rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

HERE IS THE LOOK OF FALL AND WINTER fashion from the top designers in Paris. Fur trimming, a favorite for winter, is used (left) by Jacques Heim for this heavy, mustard-yellow wool coat. The trim is dark brown beaver, is used for the hat, too. Black silk faille (left center) by Christian Dior has stiffened bertha outlining deep décolleté. It's worn with a black velvet beret. De Givenchy's soft, gray wool suit (right center) was a hit of the Paris collections. Semi-fitted and double-breasted, this notched cutaway has a cocoa-colored taffeta scarf through a diamond-clipped tab. Using bright red doeskin, Jacques Fath creates (right) an overcoat with easy lines. The cowl collar is fastened down by tab detail and tied with a self-ringed scarf.

Claim Surroundings More Important Than Gadgets

The wise mother today puts as much emphasis on having proper surroundings for her children as she does on equipping her household with the latest in mechanical aids to smooth living.

"In fact," says Dr. James F. Bender, director of the National Institute of Human Relations, "the intangibles which parents can give their children today, when the whole world is beset by fears and insecurity, are fully as important as the material things."

The atmosphere of the home and the neighborhood in which a child is reared are of decisive importance in giving him a needed feeling of security and keeping his young mind free of psychological twists that may warp his character as an adult, the well known psychologist said.

EVERY ASPECT of the home, the community around it, the furnishings of the home, the recreation facilities available to the child are all important to his development, Dr. Bender warns.

If the parents are lucky enough to have a choice of the community in which the child is to be brought up, Dr. Bender urges them to be mindful of the importance of well equipped playgrounds, of schools where the child is not exposed to speeding traffic on his way to and from classrooms and of a neighborhood atmosphere where he can build wholesome friendships.

USING LEVITTOWN, Pa., the nation's newest model city, as an example of the well planned community of this type, where a child has large, well equipped playgrounds complete with swimming pool, can walk to and from school on sheltered streets which are apart from traffic highways and can call his next door neighbor "friend" is ideal.

In the matter of furnishings for the home Dr. Bender warns against fragile furniture and fabrics which call for constant "don'ts." Pelting a child with "don'ts," he says, is apt to make him nervous and keep him on a tension, imparting in his mind an exaggerated fear of doing wrong.

EVEN TO THE small child privacy is important, Dr. Bender continues, and ways and means should be found of giving a child a place which he can call his own. Such a room should be equipped with good sturdy furniture, a cleared floor space, space for mechanical toys, window treatments permit a maximum amount of light and air and unnecessary furniture should be banished.

Asphalt Tile For Wall New Trend In Home

In the average home, daily wear and tear on the wall finish—plaster, paint, paper—adds up to damage which calls for periodic renewal or replacement. Walls in bathroom, kitchen, entrance hall, children's rooms and utility room come in for extra wear.

For walls of permanent beauty, smart coloring and long life, and to avoid the expensive periodic renewal and repair needed by most other wall finishes, many homeowners are using asphalt tile as a wall covering.

Decorators like the material because any desired design and color plan can be created by using strips and squares in contrasting colors. Home-makers like it because it cleans easily and quickly, merely by wiping with a damp cloth. Cove base, made of the same material and used instead of the conventional baseboard, is curved near its lower edge so there are no hard-to-get-at corners where wall and floor meet. Tiles with pictorial designs can be used on the walls for added interest.

To cover a wall with asphalt tile, it can be applied over any smooth, dry wall of plaster, plasterboard, plywood or hardboard. Serious holes or cracks should be filled with a latex-type filler and the patch sandpapered smooth. Plaster walls which have not been painted should be primed with wall-tile primer. All paper on the existing walls should be removed.

After the wall surface is prepared, a level starting line is drawn on the wall about 7 inches above the floor and a thin wood strip tacked to the wall, its upper edge on the line. This is to prevent the first row of tiles from slipping down before the adhesive sets.

Starting at the door casing and working along the horizontal line, adhesive is spread over an area that will be covered by 5 or 6 tiles. Tiles are then pressed into place from the door casing all along the horizontal line until a row of tiles extends clear across the wall. This procedure is continued upward, row after row, to the ceiling. Let adhesive set for about two hours. Then remove wood strip at base of wall. Cut tile for bottom row to fit contour of floor or baseboard at their lower edges. Apply adhesive, spreading it below first row of tile, and install. To go around corners, pipes or door casings or to fit any curving surface, it can be bent by heating tile on back and face, according to instructions.

Steel-making involves removal of some of the carbon and other elements and the addition of correct amount of alloying substances.

New Alloys Add Beauty To Shower

New alloys and new designs have enhanced the permanence, beauty and convenience of shower doors and tub enclosures.

The new frames are made of aluminum alloyed with nickel and chromium. The result is a metal of great strength, workability and one that permits polishing to a permanent lustre. Moreover, it won't rust, is easy to keep bright and new looking.

Two finishes are obtainable in this new aluminum alloy:

1. Chrome-like finish which is the same as other bathroom fixtures and requires little care.

2. Alumilite finish that is satin smooth and gives the metal added protection and beauty.

New safety features have been engineered into shower doors and tub enclosures, too. Thick glass panels, like those in your automobile, are set in shock-absorbing rubber that fits snugly into the aluminum alloy frames. This rubber, a war product development that will not crack, rot or become spongy, offers obvious advantages in a unit exposed to water.

Authorities say that not only are these new type shower doors and tub enclosures safer, easier to care for and more beautiful than ever, but they are simplicity itself to install in both new and old construction. And one can order them equipped with safety glass, plain clear glass or patterned, translucent type glass.

How To Fix It

Q—How can cracks be caulked to keep the caulking material from falling out after it hardens?

A—Use the prepared caulking compound made for that purpose. It never hardens completely but stays plastic enough to move with the wood or other surrounding material as it expands and contracts. Caulking compound can be applied with a putty knife or a caulking gun. It can be painted.

Q—What are the new pastel roofing colors, and are pastel shingles suitable for all kinds of houses?

A—Pastel shingles are new members of an already wide and accepted family of roof colors. They are soft, neutral blends that are slightly grayed. Red, green, and blue are popular. Aside from the color, pastel asphalt shingles are not different from others and can be used anywhere that other shingles can. Personal preference should decide.

Q—What causes fireplaces to smoke?

A—Poor construction is one reason, of course. Another reason is that the flue is clogged, perhaps because the throat damper is closed. Like any other chimney, the chimney to a fireplace should be kept clean.

NAHB Favors Six Changes In Home Loans For Veterans

If the GI home loan program is going to be a potent force in the housing economy for several more years, the National Association of Home Builders wants some changes made so the veterans will get a better housing buy.

Alon E. Brockbank, NAMB president, said his industry's attitude concerning operations of the VA Loan Guaranty Division was in line with findings of the recent report to Congress made by the Teague committee.

The Teague Report, edited by Rep. Teague (D-Tex.), concerned itself with inefficiencies in the VA-administered GI home loan program, under which some 3,000,000 homes have been sold to World War II veterans. Last year, about 150,000 new homes were purchased by veterans under the program.

'Time to Take Stock'

"It's time to take stock of VA housing operations. What started out as an emergency program for veterans during a critical housing shortage has now been extended into a long range housing program," Brockbank said.

"VA rules and procedures acceptable during an emergency period should be restudied and revised for long range operations."

"In such a gigantic housing program, some irregularities are bound to occur," Brockbank commented. "We are glad the Teague committee conducted its study, we concur with many of its findings and recommendations; but we vigorously disagree with any report which, in effect, makes no distinction between the home erected by builders who will stand behind their products and those who don't."

Favors Reorganization

The building leader said his 25,000 member association would pledge its full cooperation to any congressional group attempting to establish fair standards of protection to home buyers.

"If abuses in the VA loan guaranty program are to be eliminated," he added, "some of the recommendations of the Teague committee report must be adopted immediately."

"Extensive reorganization of the present VA Loan Guaranty Division would result in greater protection to home buyers. Such a reorganization is long overdue and its further delay will only impair the entire VA home loan program."

Following a study of the Teague Committee Report on VA housing operations, the NAHB made the following recommendations to plug some of the loopholes in the present VA loan procedures.

Five Recommendations

1. Establishment of a Loan Guaranty Division within the Veterans' Administration which would operate entirely separate from other VA activities.

2. Abolition of the VA fee appraisal and fee inspection system.

3. Appraisals and inspections of VA housing to be made by experienced, qualified personnel to be recruited by the VA for careers in the Loan Guaranty Division.

Salaries should be in accordance with present day industry practices.

4. Buyer protection procedures which give equally protection to buyer, builder and mortgage lender.

5. Closes cooperation between the VA and builder associations on matters affecting the industry.

In an official statement the NAHB said that it concurred generally with findings of the Teague committee report.

Various Materials Prevent Cellar Dampness

(Last of a series on Water-proofing Basements)

A crying need for an easy way to dampproof basements has flooded the market with various materials which are so good for minor problems that they inspire their promoter to make fantastic claims. Apparently such promotion is more or less sound business, since the majority of damp basements can be remedied rather simply and the material used will rarely be subjected to a severe test.

However, the National Bureau of Standards has found that the basic ingredient of most of such products is Portland cement "and few, if any, show any marked superiority in preventing dampness over Portland cement."

This is shown in a report, which Joseph H. Orendorff, director of research for the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington, says "indicates to us that Portland cement is the important ingredient and that waterproofing admixtures and coatings do not necessarily improve the water-tightness or absorption characteristics of the wall."

THIS BRINGS UP the interesting performance of cement-water paints. Just having finished different parts of a basement with different types of paint, this writer can report on personal experience. Having been assured by a manufacturer's representative that a good grade of oil paint would suffice for a permanently dry 12-inch poured concrete foundation, we tried it. A gallon covered less than 100 square feet because of the comparatively rough surface.

It was obvious that a sealer was called for. Shellac was used for the next section and the oil paint went farther. Still two coats of paint, unthinned, were needed for fair coverage and a third could have been used to advantage. This paint costs about $6 per gallon.

In a third section, a rubber-base cold-water paint, widely advertised for use with a roller, was tried. One coat covered better than the two coats of oil paint on top of shellac.

In another place cement-water paint was used with highly satisfactory results.

PORTLAND CEMENT paint, however, usually is available in plain white. If you want colors you add mineral pigments to suit. But the big advantage is that it provides a certain definite damp-proofing quality which ordinary paints lack. Orendorff's report states: "Where the basement wall is subject to only mild or occasional dampness, it can often be made sufficiently dry by scrubbing in one or two coats of cement-water paint on the interior-face of the wall. Where the water condition is severe, paint coats of this type usually will not correct the situation and it usually is necessary to excavate around the wall and apply a Portland cement parge coating, over which two coatings of bituminous material is usually applied to bridge over any hair checks."

And here is the formula of that HHFA expert:

"Cement-water paint may be purchased ready-mixed or can be made by mixing either gray or white Portland cement with sufficient water to produce a creamy consistency. For coarse textured masonry wall, cement-water paints consisting of one part of fine silica sand (passing a 20-mesh sieve) and one part of Portland cement are effective. They are best applied by scrubbing in with a stiff bristled brush similar to a household scrubbing brush. They should be kept damp for a few days to prevent hair checking."

that cement-water paints "repel moisture effectively." The method of use recommended is: 1) Vigorous wire brushing of surfaces;

(2) Filling with a heavy paste, all large cracks; (3) Fog spraying the surface with a hose, allowing water to drain off, but not dry; (4)

Applying the first coat with circular movements of a scrub brush, without brushing the paint out; (5)

Curing with a fine fog spray after the first coat has hardened, keeping it damp for 24 hours; (6)

Applying a second coat in long, horizontal strokes with a whitewash or calcimine brush; (7) Curing after this coat has hardened by using a fine fog spray and keeping the surface damp for at least 48 hours.

If basement walls have been painted before, all old paint must be removed before using cement-water paints. But cement-water paints can be painted over in colors after a primer has been applied.

Use Different Colored Shingles On High, Low Roof Sections

If you have a house with more than one roof section and if the sections are at different levels, Howard Ketcham, color and design engineer, has some suggestions that might help to make your home more attractive.

Ketcham does it with color. These are his ideas:

"Use different shades of the same basic asphalt shingle color on different roof levels," he says. "Assuming that a house has two roof levels, it's possible to make the two seem more nearly the same or it's possible to accentuate the difference. You can call attention to the difference or not, depending upon how good-looking this architectural feature is."

"First, take a case where you want to minimize the difference in height. The thing to do would be to select a dark asphalt shingle blend for the higher level and then to use a lighter shade of the same color on the lower level."

"This dark shade would make the high roof seem lower, and the lighter shade would make the low roof seem higher. That would create a visual illusion to bring the two together."

"You might use a dark blue-green blend and a light blue-green. Another pleasing combination would be pink-gray and a tint of the same blend."

"Reverse the color combinations for the opposite case, where you want to make the difference in height more pronounced. Use the lighter one on top and the darker below."

"In that situation, the visual effect would be reversed. The high part would seem higher, and the low part lower."

Browns Win Opener, Rout Rams, 37-7

Goshen Union Downs Lowellville, 34-7

Displaying a fine passing attack, Goshen Union High School rolled over Lowellville Saturday afternoon, 34-7, on the Lowellville field.

Goshen quarterback Carson McNealey opened the scoring in the first quarter with a 25-yard touchdown run. Roger Stitt converted for the extra point. A short time later in the same quarter, McNealey passed to end Bill McCluggage 54 yards for a touchdown.

In the second quarter McNealey again hit with a touchdown pass, completing to Jim Stallsmith 31 yards for a score. Stitt again made the extra point.

In the third period, Stitt took over the passing duties and completed a forward to Bob Hoyt good for 25 yards and a touchdown. Stitt's kick for the extra point was again good. Still using the air route, McNealey passed 15 yards to Stitt for another third period touchdown. Stitt then added another extra point.

Lowellville's lone tally came with two minutes to go in the game. Bill Johnson raced 15 yards around end for 15 yards and a TD.

Goshen led in rushing 264 yards to 83.

Take Revenge After Last Year's Defeat

By FRITZ HOWELL
CLEVELAND (AP) — Paul Brown was wearing a satisfied smile today after that 37-7 walloping his Browns handed the National League champion Los Angeles Rams Sunday.

Precision Paul figured the victory, before a home town crowd of 57,832, pitched up his prestige, which had been frayed somewhat by the Rams' 24-17 win in the 1951 championship game. That loss left the Browns without a league title for the first time since 1946.

Their opener victory gave the Browns four victories in five starts against the Rams, but Brown will never forget the lone loss.

"We've waited a year for this game," the Brown mentor grinned, "and it was a real leathering."

Another satisfied guy with the Browns was big Marion Motley, fullback who didn't do too well a year ago. The huge one rolled 69 yards in 10 tries, including a 16-yard scoring jaunt on his favorite trap play.

Halfback Ken Carpenter led the Browns on the ground with 145 yards in 16 runs.

So well did the Browns smother the famed aerial circus of the Los Angeles club that Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin completed only six of 27 passes for 66 yards.

Golden-toed Lou Groza, talented tackle, had a big day. He booted four extra points, and three field goals from 27, 49 and 14 yards.

The Browns scored two touchdowns through the air, Otto Graham hitting Carpenter for 41 yards and Sherman Howard for 14, and two on the ground as Dub Jones wheeled around end for four yards and Motley zoomed over guard for 16.

The Rams' only sustained drive came in the fourth period after the game was gone beyond redemption.

College Football Elevens Show Surprising Game Results

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — The college football picture, which has been hazy since the campaign got under way two weeks ago, should come into sharper focus when the smoke of battle clears Saturday.

Many of the early season results have been surprising—although not amazing—with many of the teams that the experts picked to cut a swath through their schedules instead barely staggering along.

Michigan State, for example, was considered the No. 1 spot in the pre-season Associated Press poll to finish operations as the top-ranked team in the country. But the Spartans had to come from behind to whip Michigan, a haven of the Big Ten these days, 27-13, Saturday.

But don't sell State short. Biggie Munn's lads have a habit of letting the opposition get away a running only to come along at the end to pull the victory out of the fire.

Michigan State plays Oregon State in its second game at Portland, Ore., and should experience no such difficulty.

Then whoever would have thought that mighty Maryland, the stepchild of the Southern Conference, would be battered and bruised two weeks in a row and emerge with hairline decisions.

After barely squeaking by Missouri in its opener, the Terps took a narrow 13-7 decision from Auburn Saturday.

Now they play Clemson, which also is in the process of atoning for its sins by not being permitted to play Southern Conference teams. Maryland also should win this handily.

Pessimists already are predicting an end to the longest winning streak in college football—Princeton's 23 games. But they're kindly waiting until two weeks hence when Charlie Caldwell's Ivy League champions battle Penn.

The reason for the doubtful outlook is Princeton's unimpressive 14-0 victory over Columbia, and Penn's well-played 7-7 tie with Notre Dame.

In the Big Ten Conference, the title may be decided this Saturday—strange as it seems—when Illinois visits Wisconsin. Illinois is the defending champion, but some have ranked Wisconsin as a strong choice to dethrone the Illini.

In the Southwest Conference, the chances are very good that there will be a new champion. Texas Christian, the defending champion, not only has lost both its starts but hasn't even been able to find the goal-line.

With the demise of the Horned Frogs, Texas jumped into the favorite's role. The Longhorns must tangle with Notre Dame this week after walloping North Carolina, 28-7, over the week end. UCLA stopped the Horned Frogs, 14-0, Saturday.

The Pacific Coast Conference is running pretty much according to form with California the team to beat—just as it always is. The Golden Bears, with Johnny Olszewski handling the main offensive chores, looked good turning back Missouri, 28-14. They journey to Minnesota this week.

It's beginning to look as though someone might upset Oklahoma, the defending champion in the Big Seven. Kansas and Nebraska both have been impressive, while the Sooners were held to a 21-21 tie by Colorado.

Georgia Tech, which was ranked the No. 3 team in the country before festivities got under way, will have to produce against Southern Methodist to keep its lofty spot after eking out a 17-14 triumph over Florida. Tennessee, which may give the Engineers a fight for the Southeastern Conference title, has a tough opponent in Duke.

The Rocky Mountain race may be decided when the two favorites—Idaho State and Colorado College—play at Colorado Springs, while in the Missouri Valley, last year's winner Tulsa looks stronger and stronger.

Three former University of Mississippi players, Bill Watson, Carl West and Jimmy Crawford, are helping coach the present Ole Miss' football team.

Trumans Attend Church In Ohio

15,000 Greet Family At Wooster Sunday

WOOSTER, O. (AP) — President Harry S. Truman and his daughter, Margaret, made a two and one-half hour stop here Sunday to attend church, and some 15,000 persons turned out to welcome them.

That's about 1,000 more than the population in this seat of normally Republican Wayne County.

The President made two back platform appearances just before his special train moved west on a 14-state campaign for the national Democratic ticket.

But, in accordance with his practice of no Sunday speeches, Truman confined his remarks here to brief greetings. He thanked the crowd with "all my heart" for their demonstration and wished them "good luck."

In the crowd were three young men carrying standards picturing the Republican presidential nominee with the slogan beneath it: "America Needs Eisenhower."

A committee of 25 leading Wooster citizens greeted the President when his train arrived. Then a motorcade of six automobiles and a press bus carried the president tial party along a flag-hung route to the Bethany Baptist Church, the community's oldest house of worship.

There they heard the Rev. Douglas G. McCreight preach a sermon on "Behold My Hands," with John 20:16-31 as the Scripture text.

Later, in his farewell to the crowd at the station, the President said:

"It was a wonderful sermon and a wonderful service. I appreciate it with all my heart."

Before arriving here, the presidential train stopped a few minutes at Canton, where about 4,000 were gathered. Someone tossed a bunch of flowers to Margaret, and another person shouted to her: "Don't give up TV," a reference to her nationally televised appearances as an entertainer.

After the train left here a few hundred persons met it at Crestline and several hundred more collected at Lima, but no stop was scheduled in the latter city.

The President is due to cross Ohio on his return trip to Washington, arriving in Bellefontaine at 11:10 a. m., Thursday, Oct. 9, making brief stops at Marion and Gallon, and spending an hour in Cleveland, from 2:45 to 3:45 p. m.

2 Men Deny Charges Filed By Girl's Parents

Two Salem men, arrested by city police and juvenile authorities on charges of statutory rape filed by the parents of an 11-year old Salem girl, pleaded not guilty to the charges before Mayor Harry M. Vincent Saturday and were bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond each.

Orville Dayton, 42, of 518 Woodland Ave. was arrested at his home at 5:31 a. m. Saturday and Leonard Montana, 58, of RD 2, Salem was apprehended at 8:30 p. m. Friday on W. Fifth St. by police and juvenile authorities.

The two men were released over the weekend after they had posted the necessary bonds.

2 In Northeast Ohio Added To Polio Dead

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two more infantile paralysis deaths were added Sunday to Northeastern Ohio's 1952 polio toll, which stands at about 70.

Seven-year-old Paul B. Gottschalt of Euclid died Sunday of polio at City Hospital here. He was the 23rd fatality from the disease at Cleveland hospitals this year.

The other death was that of Jack Halter, 23, of New Philadelphia. He was the fifth 1952 infantile paralysis death at Aultman Hospital in Canton.

House Group Says Air Base Builders Falsely Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The long-lambasted builders of the 421-million-dollar North African air base system found friends today in a House subcommittee.

Stevenson

209.68 and his outside income $151,210.26, for a total of $186,419.94. Taxes came to $84,459.35, so the net was $101,960.59.

Here and there, like any other taxpayer, the governor made mistakes on his returns. Last year's, for example, showed a loss on farming operations of $1,521.64 in the separate forms used for farmers. But he left off $1,000 and took a deduction of only $521.46.

Back in 1942 and 1943, Stevenson's contributions included $10 each year to the Institute of Pacific Relations. The Senate internal security subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) said in a report July 2 that Communists and pro-Communists took control of the IPR. The report also said there was no evidence the majority of its members supported it "for any reason except to advance the professed research and scholarly purposes of the organization."

Stevenson announced Saturday night that he would make public his tax returns for 10 years and so would his vice presidential running mate, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

"I have often thought that every candidate for high public office should, as a matter of regular course," he said, "make a full disclosure of his personal financial condition over a period of years."

Gen. Eisenhower showed no immediate inclination to go along with that idea. In New York for a campaign interlude, the GOP nominee was silent on the question of tax returns.

But here at Stevenson's headquarters, aides to the Illinois governor said they figured the Illinois governor has put the opposition on something of a spot. They reasoned that if Eisenhower and Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, the GOP vice presidential nominee, don't come forth with tax returns the Democrats will be able to start asking whether they have anything to hide.

That was the question GOP leaders—including Nixon—had been throwing at Stevenson in connection with the "Illinois fund," from which a few state officials got gifts from the governor.

The house appropriations subcommittee on military construction had some kind words for the military and civilian builders of the U. S. bases in Morocco and some admonition for critics—although the House members didn't mention the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Committee by name.

Following by a few months the sharp and critical report of the Senate group which charged waste and confusion in the construction of the African airfields, the House committee issued its own report. It said, among other things, that:

1. The "notoriety given the Moroccan air base construction" was based "in large measure on a fragmentary record."

2. As the House committee's investigation developed facts, "a picture appeared substantially different from the one previously placed before the public. The implication that little had been accomplished was false. By the time these hearings began in April, 1952, less than a year after ground had been broken, two giant airfields were in use, and a third was well on the way to a condition of use."

(The program involves construction of five bases.)

3. "As far as the charges themselves were concerned it was seen that some were indeed based on fact and represented constructive criticism. Many, however, were based either on falsehoods, gross exaggerations, or that type of half-truth which emphasizes faults only and ignores the amount of work done and the difficulties under which the job had to proceed."

The bases are being built under direction of the Army's Corps of Engineers, which is headed by Lt. Gen. Lewis Pick, to specifications of the Air Force. The construction contract is held by a group of firms combined under the name Atlas Constructors.

Everett Gorbey of East Palestine pleaded guilty to both a non-support charge and failure to provide for a pregnant woman. He requested probation.

Others scheduled to enter pleas today include Elaine Akers, 26, of Wellsville, embezzlement; Russell Bagley of Salem, attempted robbery of a Salem service station; and Howard Butcher of Glendale, W. Va., larceny by trick.

A secret indictment was returned against Miss Akers for embezzling $2,330 while employed as a bookkeeper at an East Liverpool clothing store.

William Richter of Fombell, Pa., indicted for robbing a dry cleaning store in Salem, will be arraigned when he is returned from the Lima State Hospital. He was sent to Lima by Mahoning County officials.

The process known as "cracking" obtains approximately twice as much gasoline from a barrel of crude oil as was formerly obtained by straight distillation.

George Reash Jr., son of Patrolman and Mrs. George L. Reash of 344 W. Fifth St. and a junior at Wittenberg College sustained a back injury Saturday afternoon while playing in a football game at the Rubber Bowl between Wittenberg and the University of Akron.

Reash was taken to Akron City Hospital where his condition is reported good today.

Dr. Joseph Schmid, Salem dentist, will speak on the fluoridation of drinking water when he addresses members of the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon in the Memorial Building.

$18, MERCHANDISE STOLEN LISBON—Deputy Sheriff Richard Judge reported $18 in change and $100 in merchandise was taken from Wilson Market at Glenmore sometime Friday night or Saturday morning. Kenneth Wilson, owner, said entrance was gained by forcing a rear door.

from his book, "Crusade in Europe."

This ruling—similar to others in some like cases—permitted the general to pay only 25 per cent tax instead of the higher income rate, because he was held to be operating outside his usual field of activities when he furnished the information for the published volume.

Perhaps with something of this in mind, Stevenson laid down last night a summarizing showing he had received a total income from 1942 through 1951 of $500,052 on which he paid income taxes of $211,980.

Eisenhower worked on campaign speeches at his home yesterday, after attending morning church services.

Aides of the candidate said there would be no Sunday comment on income taxes or any other topic.

Working on the speeches with Eisenhower was his top adviser, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire. They were to continue the task today.

Aides said Eisenhower had no appointments scheduled for today at his Hotel Commodore headquarters.

110 Scouts In County Troops Attend Fall Roundup Event

Twelve troops were represented by 110 Boy Scouts from Columbiana County Saturday at the Fall Roundup at McKinley Scout Reservation near Lisbon, John Hartwell of Lisbon, scout executive, announced today.

The scouts found four "hidden" camps by use of directions that brought them near but not directly to a pup tent secluded in the bushes. Projects included first aid, knot tying, measuring a distance they could not walk and a height they could not reach.

A string-burning contest and a campfire in the evening also were enjoyed. A special feature of the campfire was the ceremonial opening and closing by scouts of the Order of the Arrow in costume.

Director of the event was Edgar Moser of Columbiana, assisted by Robert Coy of Salem, Hugh Nile of Wellsville, Eugene Seely of Chester, W. Va., Lloyd Beights of East Palestine and James Wagoner and Leonard Richards, both of East Liverpool, and Eugene McLenaur of Columbiana, scout field executive.

Troops attending were 5 and 3 of Salem, 16 and 18 of Columbiana, 45 of East Palestine, 19 and 20 of Wellsville, 7, 31 and 38 of East Liverpool, 92 of Lisbon and 55 of North Georgetown.

Lee Schafer of Troop 5 (First Christian Church) and Dudley A. Schaefer of Troop 3 (Presbyterian Church) were in charge of those two troops at the roundup.

Police Investigate Three Traffic Mishaps Police were called to investigate three traffic mishaps over the weekend.

Slight damages occurred to each auto at 5:12 p. m. Saturday when cars operated by L. J. Bowman of RD 4, Salem, Clemmer Greenstein of 1945 E. State St. and J. R. Cain of Bylesville, O. figured in a mishap on E. State St.

Twila Myers of 528 Aetna St. reported to police that her car was struck and slightly damaged by an unidentified car sometime after 10 p. m. Sunday while it was parked in the driveway of her home.

Doris Crawford of Darlington, Pa. told police that at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, as she was stopped on State St. for the traffic light at Ellsworth Ave. her car was struck from the rear by an unidentified auto. The driver of the other car drove away after the mishap, she said.
